

Baydon St. Nicholas

Church of England
Voluntary Aided School

Head Teacher: Caroline Knighton

September 2016

It gives me great pleasure to introduce myself as the new Headteacher at Baydon St Nicholas. I am most excited by the challenge of leading this wonderful school to the next phase of its development and working with the excellent team which is already in place. I am also much looking forward to meeting and getting to know the Baydon community over the coming months.

By way of introduction, I have been the Deputy Head at St Michael's in Aldbourne where I taught for seven years and, prior to that, taught in a large primary school in Swindon. I came into teaching late in my career having first qualified as a solicitor in the City of London and then working in the voluntary sector for a variety of different charities including BBC Children in Need and one of the Prince's Trusts.

I live in Aldbourne with my husband and two children and, when I am not at Baydon, will either have my head in a book or be seen walking or cycling around the beautiful countryside which we are truly blessed to live in.

If you already know the school, please do feel free to drop in and introduce yourself. If not, why not pop in anyway and I'd be delighted to show you round.
